Why would I use a list bliss display instead of using individual place cards?

There are several reason why a seating display turns your guest list into bliss. It is a functional tool to help keep your guests organized at your event, it saves you time, it incorporates your design, it expedites your guest to their tables, & it is affordable.

How will using a display save me time before and during the wedding?

The timesaving aspect of these displays is a big bonus for any busy bride or planner. When you finally have all your RSVP's in hand you need to decide who is going to sit where & then interpret that information for your guests. Typically place cards are written out by hand from either store bought blank place cards or from another source. It can take hours upon hours to write the guests names onto these cards, & this can only be done days before the actual event. What a headache! Then someone needs to set them up in alphabetical order at the event, then make sure that through all the shuffling around at the event the guests names stay in order so they are easy to find. Another benefit is your guests won't need to hold on to their place card through cocktail hour, they can just walk to their table and enjoy the reception.

How does it expedite my guests to the reception?

The display can be set up in a central area that people will casually walk by, typically giving your guest an hour to see the display and simply find their names. Such as by the bar or the entrance to your reception. With the place cards, you must find an out of the way spot to set up each of the cards so they are not knocked over, spilled on, etc. This means, that unless directed to that area, your guests will not intuitively find their name and table number.

When do I need to forward the seating arrangements on to Twice Nine?

We ask that you send us your list no later then seven (7) FULL days before the event. Even before your guest totals are finalized we can start creating your display. By getting this process going earlier on, it will help you to put your mind to rest that when your numbers come in (your final head count) you will simply e-mail us your guest list & we will do the rest!

What if there is a last minute change on the seating arrangements?

You will have an opportunity to approve your display with your guest list inserted into your design six (6) days before your event. If there are any changes they will need to be made on that day, & the designer will make the changes & sent the display back to you for final approval. If at that point you have additional changes you will pay $25 per change additionally.

Please note that if you have changes within 5 days of your event, we will not be able to get your display printed & sent to you on time. If the option is available to do overnight shipping we will do our best to accommodate you.
